

Missouri Housing Development Commission does not currently limit the amount of tax-exempt multifamily bond authority for which a developer may request. Currently, developers may request the amount of bond authority sufficient to support financial feasibility. To qualify for the full amount of 4 percent Housing Credits, at least 25 percent of a project's aggregate basis must be financed with tax-exempt multifamily bonds in accordance with Federal requirements.